

Leveraging Our Vast Reciprocal Network

By Rob Crofford (Member 01564)

Reciprocal relationships are a great way to extend your MC club benefits. Last June, on a visit to London, I took a detour to visit the Royal Over-Seas League in Mayfair. This charming club sits right on St James Park with an atmosphere similar to our MC, conducive to both social and business needs. For a return trip in October, I was able to book a week at the ROSL, with full member benefits. It was a big decision to divert from my usual Marriott choices. As a private club, the ROSL provided a level of personal service and etiquette that is difficult for even the highest-end hotels to match, at a surprisingly lower cost. The room was small, as expected of a boutique hotel. Still, I was given full access to charming member-only areas, including the bar with a terrace overlooking the park, as well as the library and drawing room for quiet, electronics-free work and relaxation. I'm happy to report that ROSL was a great escape in a very busy part of London.

I'm looking forward to visiting more reciprocal clubs in my future travels...

A GREAT PLACE TO MEET CLIENTS AND UTILIZE OUR SPACE

By David Barnett (Member 01544)

The Morristown Club is a genuinely delightful place to work. I particularly appreciate the quiet and comfort of the second-floor rooms, which are perfect for both formal meetings and casual conversations. The service is truly impeccable as the staff consistently checks in to ensure all my needs are met. I use the Club at least once a week, and I wouldn't be able to find this level of amenities or service in any typical co-working space.
